Under the agreement, the partners will collaborate in medical practice and research. The hospital will offer DTU students opportunities for internships and jobs and DTU will support the training of doctors and staff.

Addressing at the ceremony, Doctor Do Muoi said: “DTU, the first and largest private university in Central Vietnam, is always highly regarded in our society and we are very proud to collaborate with them. This will be the chance for us to learn more and enhance our major capabilities. So we promise to follow the agreement with DTU to enhance the quality of treatment.”

A performance to commemorate Vietnam Doctor's Day

Performances commemorating the 59th anniversary of Vietnam Doctor's Day at the signing ceremony praised doctors for caring and protecting community health.

Collaborating with the Polyclinic Hospital will broaden and strengthen both DTU's relationships with local institutions and the educational and research capabilities of the DTU Pharmacy Faculty.
