

DTU Seminar on Creativity and Innovation

On June 6, the DTU Startup Center, the Danang Hi-tech Park General Service Center and the Songhan Incubator jointly held a “Creativity and Innovation” seminar, to share information, skills and career opportunities.

MSc. Truong Tien Vu, Director of the DTU Startup Center, speaks

Tech Startups are new trends with significant long-term potential and are receiving extensive support from the government and corporations to promote the Vietnamese Startup Ecosystem.

MSc. Truong Tien Vu, Director of the DTU Startup Center, said: “Deepening international integration and the rapid development of digital technology have broadened career opportunities and job promotions for the younger generation. New products, services and business models, including Tech Startups, have been created to achieve this. The information gained from this seminar will enable you to make wise decisions in choosing appropriate careers on graduation.”

DTU students attend the seminar

The participants exchanged information on the latest technological trends, on Startups at Danang High-Tech Park, on the “journey to innovation” and the role of business technology incubators. Important creative Startups have already been launched in IT, Biotech and Electrical Engineering and other fields.

Students asked questions about innovation, technological Startups and ways of contacting relevant agencies. Young startups have to face complex challenges however, but, if they are knowledgeable and skillful, they will be equipped to create innovative new products to meet client needs and contribute to national development.

(Media Center)